What we offer

At Beacon Dental Sleep we offer Oral Appliance Therapy. This is a personalised device, worn at night while sleeping. It works by carefully adjusting the position of the jaw, to open the upper airway, supporting night-time breathing, overnight optimal oxygenation and the elimination of noise and/or snoring.

We provide Oral Device Therapy, as an alternative treatment for Sleep Apnoea patients, who cannot tolerate C.P.A.P. (Mask Therapy).

The device performance is validated by an overnight at home sensor. A combination of patients' report of how they actually feel and the figures which support validation of overnight oxygenation, are the most rewarding aspect of the service.

This is a personalised device, worn at night while sleeping. The device design is scanned for an individual fit, manufactured in a specifically durable, yet flexible material, which can be adjusted to ensure optimal device performance.

Here at Beacon Dental Sleep we work with Medical Doctors including, Consultant Respiratory Doctors, Ear Nose and Throat Consultants, Sleep Consultants, General Medical Practitioners and other Medical Professionals to provide the most comprehensive and personalised Device service for your Sleep Health.

Why Sleep Health Management Matters

Seeking a diagnosis for Sleep Disordered Breathing is essential to Good Health.

Research is clear that undiagnosed, untreated Sleep Apnoea is unsafe. Many body systems are affected by untreated Sleep Disordered Breathing.

Some of the conditions which can develop with untreated Sleep Apnoea include:

- Cardiovascular Problems
- Cognitive Problems (Attention, Memory, Mood regulation)
- Untreated Blood Pressure changes
- Excessive Daytime Sleepiness
- Diabetes and other related Metabolic Disorders
